ALMANACS BY THE MILLION
Their Printing is a Government Monopoly in China, and is Jealously Guarded.
The Chinese almanac is the most largely circulated publication in the world, the copies printed and sold yearly reaching several millions. It is printed at Peking and is a monopoly of the emperor, no other almanac being permitted to be sold in that country. Although containing reliable astronomical information, its chief mission is to give full and accurate information for selecting lucky places for performing all the acts, great and small, of everyday life. And as every act of life in China, however, trivial, depends for its success on the time in which and the direction (point of compass) toward which it is done it is of the utmost importance that every one should have correct information at all times available to enable him so to order his life as to avoid bad luck and calamity and secure good luck and prosperity. So great is the native faith in its infallibility that not long since the Chinese minister to Germany refused to sail on a day which had been appointed because it was declared in the almanac to be unlucky.
CAUSE OF THE RASH ACT.
"You're the editor, ain't you?" asked the caller, a man with thin lips, high cheek bones, and a sharp nose.
"Yes, sir," answered the man at the desk. "What can I—"
"Well, sir, I've been readin' your paper purty regular for about 27 years, but you had an article this morning—"
"That you couldn't indorse? I'm sorry for that, but you know such things are likely to happen now and then, and—"
"That wasn't what I was goin' to say. That article pleased me so well that I thought I'd come around and subscribe for the paper. How much is it?"
INVENTIONS BY WOMEN.
Mrs. Eliza Hall of Melrose, Mass., aged 75, has just invented a skirt holder. Some months ago Mrs. Hall tripped on her skirt and fell, breaking her ankle. While confined to her bed she devised and made with her own hands the model for the skirt holder, which she believes will prevent such accidents. Mrs. Martha J. Krag, another woman who is a grandmother, has invented a hemstitching attachment which can be used on any machine. To perfect her model Mrs. Krag went into the foundry and worked regularly day after day. She then, under the direction of her husband, formed a company to put the hemstitcher on the market.
EARTHQUAKE FEAR.
Mankind are strangely inconsistent in the matter of running risks. There is no danger that appalls the imagination more than the danger of earthquake; and yet those parts of the world that are most subject to earthquakes seem never to have been therefor shunned by human beings. An earthquake is an "act of God," and men are clearly helpless against it. Like death, no one knows when it may come; but, unlike death, it may never come at all, and therefore men fear it less than death.
BOUGHT TO HAVE KNOWN.
"Paw," queried little Tommy Toddes, "what's a parasite?"
"How long have you been going to school, young man?" asked Toddes, Sr.
"Four years," answered Tommy.
"Well," continued the old man, "there is something wrong with our educational system if four years of schooling hasn't taught you that a parasite is a person who lives in Paris."

LEFT HIM THINKING.
Ellis—Do you think it would be foolish of me to marry a girl who was my inferior intellectually?
Grace—More than foolish—impossible.
PROFITATING THE WEATHER.
In Macedonia the Greeks organize great demonstrations in dry summers. A procession of children visits all the local wells and springs, accompanied by a maiden covered with garlands and masses of flowers. This sounds as romantic as our queen of the May, and it could surprise no one if, like Tennyson's heroine, she came to a sad end, for at each of the stopping places the poor dear is drenched with water while the children sing a rhyming prayer for rain.—Wide World Magazine.
THE PROBABILITY.
First Burglar—Did you get anything, Bill?
Second Burglar—No. The bloke what lives there is a lawyer.
First Burglar—Did yer "lose" anything?
SAFETY IN NUMBERS.
Celestine—And has Mr. Pryor's church such a small congregation?
Hilda—Yes, indeed. Every time he says "Dearly beloved" you feel as if you had received a proposal.—Bohemian.
AN EFFORT TO ANSWER.
"Father," said little Rollo, "what is the glass of fashion?"
"I don't know exactly, my son. But Englishmen I've met seem to think it's the monocle."
AGREEABLY STRUCK.
Bill—Were you ever struck by a wave?
Jill—Yes, by a marcel wave.

ONLY "DRY" SPOT IN CITY
Surprise Alleged to Have Been Accorded Thirsty Visitors to Savannah, Ga.
Two men from New York awoke one morning to find themselves in Savannah, Ga. Remembering that they were in a prohibition state, and having a thirst worthy of their surroundings, the pair started out on a hunt for an eye-opener.
They were not acquainted and were in a quandary as to where to start on their quest, and while they were debating the question mentally between them they were approached by a pleasant-looking policeman, who wished them "good morning."
"Say, Jim," said one of the pilgrims to the other, "this is an opening. Here's a good fellow; let's ask him." It was agreed, and the officer answered their inquiry by saying, laconically: "Follow me," he walked them three blocks until they stood in front of the cathedral. Here he paused.
The travelers looked at each other in astonishment.
"Surely, my good man," said the first, "you do not mean to tell us a blind tiger is being operated in church?"
"You see the church, do you?" asked the policeman, solemnly.
"Yes," assented the two.
"Well, that is the only place in Savannah that you can't get it," said he.—Exchange.
EVERY MORNING INCIDENT.
The stranger stepped off the train in the new suburban town. There were the usual rows of cottages and bungalows and on a high hill some distance back was a large building with many cupolas.
"What place is that?" queried the stranger.
"Why, that is the female seminary. That is where they train misses."
"Ah, indeed. And what do the rest of your suburbanites follow around here, mister?"
"Nothing—except miss trains."
